Residential Security Teams are an essential element of any security plan. Westacre Security have vast experience in protecting our clients, with our RSTs operating 24/7 in the UK and overseas.

Our RST personnel are hand-picked for each client according to their qualifications, skill-sets, experience and where required, their personality. Most of our personnel come from a background in elite military and police units, and all are DBS checked and SIA licensed where required. All our personal are trained and experienced in the provision of first aid and immediate medical care.

We provide a one-stop shop for all security requirements so the physical manpower are properly trained and experienced in utilising the technical security. This ensures an effective overall security plan, with maximum protection.

An effective RST will provide a good enough deterrent to prevent you becoming a target, but will always be on hand to deal with the threat in case you do suffer a breach - taking control of an incident and dealing with the threat.

With police budgets and manpower under constant strain, it is imperative you address your own residential security requirements - don't wait until you have become a target!

A security assessment is the best way to establish any vulnerabilities and to produce an RST package which strikes a balance between the threat, cost and lifestyle impact.
